Dear Parents / Carers

It has been a week of new beginnings. To reflect our school ambitions for all pupils, we have launched our new School Values this week – Be Caring, Be Resilient, Be Excellent. School values are the principles of aims and promises which we, both adults and children, strive to demonstrate every day. The school values also need to be meaningful and easily understood by all. We are looking forward to embedding these core principles of practice at Bassingbourn over the coming days. Please talk to your children about them at home as the more they talk about our school values, the more clarity and understanding they will have. We really appreciate your support with this.

In addition, we have also streamlined our Behaviour Expectations so that it is clear for everyone – Be Respectful and Be Safe. We believe these expectations encompass all attributes that we would like to foster with pupils. The expectations are also clear to ensure we have consistency across the school. We also have our new Behaviour Policy that sets out the procedures we follow to support and manage behaviours in school.

We wish you all a great weekend and will see you back in school on Monday.

PE ROUNDUP

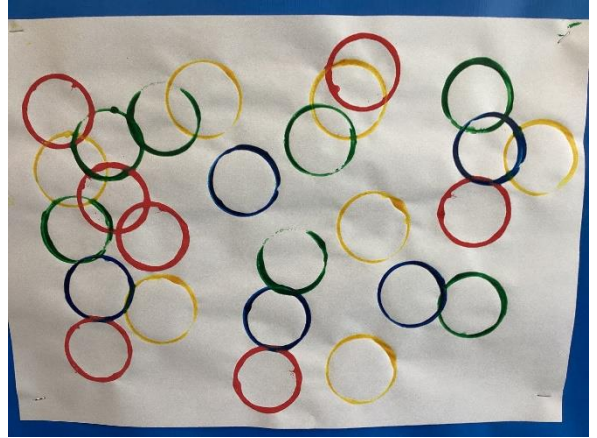

On Tuesday, year 5 enjoyed a brilliant stunt BMX workshop from Mike Mullen. Students were tasked with being pushed out of their comfort zone and did a brilliant job throughout the day. Mike also delivered a whole school assembly where he shared some key messages surrounding resilience and determination, whilst also showing off some very exciting tricks.

Year 6 News

Year 6 have settled into returning to learning during the first two weeks. Each class has learning about their class artist, (Rachel Whiteread and Stephen Wiltshire) including their relevant tools and techniques. The children have engaged in practice SAT's Papers, exposing them to this format. They have been positive and keen to impress, demonstrating manners and successfully completing their first set of homework tasks.
